BIRTH-SPOT MEMORIES.

BY GROUGE D. PRESTICE. Ah, how the silent memories of years Are stirring in my spirit. I have been A lone guil joyless wanderer. I have comme Abroad through other climes, where tropic flowers Were offering up their incense, and the stars Swimming like living creatures; I have strayed Where the soft skies of Italy were hung In beautiful transparency above, And glory floating like a lovely dram O'er the rich landscape; yet dear fancy still, 'Mid all the girm of brighter realms, That blest i's earliest dar-dirams. Must I go Forth in the world again? The proved its joys, Till joy was turned to bitterness-Pre felt Its surrows till I thought my heart would burst With the fierce rush of tears! The sorrowing babe Clings to its mother's breast. The bleeding dove, To die amid the onict grove, where first She tried her tender pinion. I could love Thus to repose and it these scenes To memory dear. Oh it were passing sweet To rest Grever on this lovely spot, Where passed my days of imprence-to dream Of the pure stream of infant happiness sank it like's wild and burning sands—to dwell

How Poor Young Men May Succeed. Young man, are you poor and without the means of splung ing in life, as you said the Mayor; "there, try to walk along launch upon its oillows! Is your father that seam in the floor." NEW BOOT & SHOE ESTABLISHMENT. poor and unable to give you an outfit? Be HAS the pleasure of announcing to his friends and the public that he has comnot disheartened on account of all this .-Take carnest hold of life, and never regard meneed the Boot and Shoe business on his yourself in any other light than that of 'own hook," on Baltimore street, Gettysbeing destined to a high and noble purburg, opposite Fahnestock's store, and is Study closely the heat of your own prepared to make up Boots and Shoes of all kinds, for Gentlemen, Ladies, and Chilmind for labor or a profession, and either learn a trade or adopt a profession. The world owes every man a comfortable living, and a respectable position in society; means are abundant to every man's success : and men have only to adopt will and action to them. Cheap! Cheap! More New Goods.

To repine over a want of money and property, to start out in the world with, and over the want of the props of influential relatives, is animanly. Let a young man strive to create a fortune, rather than seek to inherit one. It is an ignoble spirit that leads a young man to borrow, instead of bequenthing means. Go forth into the world, young man, conscious of God within you, and his providence over you, and fight your own way to distinction, to honor, and comfort. Pity in your inmost soul the young man who, without any change, is unable to support bimself, and is whising around, and begging the influence of others, to get him into employment! Feel, under all circumstances, that it is more noble, more honorable to eat the crust you have earned, than to flourish with coppers inherited. You may lift your head proudly to face and confront the noblest among us, when you are conscious of being the architret of your own fortunes. Young man, are you poor? Be houest, be virtuous, he industrious: hold up your head, and say hy your actions and looks, what the poet has said in words:

"I scorn the man who beasts his birth, And counts his titles and his lands, Who takes his name and heritage From out a dying father's hand."

The Standerer .- A clerical gentleman once made the remark that a slauderer was a viler criminal than either the thick or assassin. There is a good deal of truth in these words. And yet the thicf is confined man. in a dungeon, and the assessin swings on a gibbet, while the assassin of character is tolerated and respected in society, and continues in good standing in the church .--Murder is the employment of the slanderer, innocence his prey, and ruin his delight. — Rights of persons and property are not more sacred than rights of character; and yet every day of our lives.

Cure for Commulant Infatuation .- A Buffalo lady who claims to "know what's what," proposes that young men and women be set up in housekeeping before they are allowed to be engaged; that the young woman shall wash and mend and dust, and that a new horn infant he procured from the Hospital, and that she have the charge of him in addition to her other duties .-VIOLINE, Flutes, Fifes, Accordeons, etc. She is of the opinion that this profit at PICKING'S. | would "discussional" the young people. On New Year's day the annual negro the deceased, mounted upon an old goods people for about fifteen minutes. He said if the mass of the people felt as he did, and would do their duty, which he believed they would, that they would take that black murderer out of jail and burn him at the stake, in the presence of all the negroes that were there, to set an example before them, and show them what will be the result of all such conduct if there should ever be such again. Then he closed by saying, "All that feel as I do will follow me." He then leaped from the stand, and there was a general shout given, and he led the way to the jail, and nine tenths of the multitude followed. On arriving at the iail they found the shoriff and jailor, who did all they could to suppress the mob, but all to no purpose.

They now mustered some 800 or 1000strong. They then commenced with sledge bammers, crowbars and axes, and in about an hour entered the jail and brought forward their victim (the negro murderer.)-They marched him to the centre of the jail-yard, drove down a large stake and chained him, in an creek position, hand and feet fast to the stake. There was an abundance of shavings and fine split wood piled around him-this consumed some half hour. During this time the negro talked to the negroes that gathered round him. He told them that he had a good master, and that he was always treated too well and given too many liberties, and for them to take warning in time and never do as he had done. Then the torch was applied, and he seemed to be entirely indifferent about it until the flames began to burn as high as his knees. Then he began to twist, and snort and groan, and in about a minute more he commenced to scream. He gave some of the most hideous ecreams that I ever heard come from a human be-

The Leavenworth Times, of the 29th ult., contains the following account of the treatment of the prisoners, after their arrival at Weston :

The two Doys were thrust into a dirty cell, refused the common necessaries of life, and threatened with lynching by a mob of dants vainly pleaded their right to be tried | In Kansas. The result of the mock trial was their commitment to the county jail at Platte city, whither they were conveyed, handouffed. The throng of desperadoes who followed and insulted them during their journey, as they drew near to the jail with the prisoner, took a vote as to what should be their fate. It was at first decided that they should be burned at the stake. but it was afterwards concluded to put them to death by hanging, and a time was fixed for the execution of the sentence .-These outrages had excited intense indignation throughout the Territory, and preparations were, at last accounts, being actively made to release the prisoners and retaliate upon their captors.

The Punishment of Crime.

Two more Marderers Connected - Mrs Mary Hartung, who has been on trial at Albany, N. Y., for several days, for the murder of her husband, Emil Hartung, was on Monday found guilty of murder. The prisoner is quite young and handsome, and her case has excited the greatest sympathy. It appears she had become enamored of a man named William Rheinman, and so strong did she imagine herself in love with him that she administered poison to her lawful hasband in order to tid her-olf of his presence. After he died she fied, and for slong time she cluded the vigilance of the police, notwithstanding a large reward was offered for her apprehension by the Goverpor; but one of her letters to the man for whom she had sacrificed so much having fallen into the hands of another person by the same name, her whereabouts be came known, and she was at once arrested.

During the trial her counsel read to the jury a confession made by her, in which she admits having purchased the arsenic and given it into the hands of Rheinman, who was bourding in the family, who she charges with baving seduced her, and who she supposes poisoned her husband.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

Car Rolling Down Hill Sideways with Passengers and a red-hot Stove.-An accident occurred on the Williamsport and Elin ra (N. Y.,) railroad on Friday week. Some fifteen miles below the former place the train passed ov r a broken rail while running on a curve dug into the side of a mountain. On the left was a precipitous declivity of seventy-five feet to the river. The engine and baggage car went over the gap and kept the track, but the first passenger car, in which were Col. Paine, the postmaster of Rochester, and seven other gentlemen, uncoupled both in front and rear, le t the track and started down the precipice. It turned over once and a half in going twice its length, and then brought up against some rocks, where it lay at an angle of about forty-five degrees, with the passengers and all the fixtures in it, including the stove, in a promiscuous pile at the lower end.

Col. Paine writes that he clung to his seat, and in all the leaping and rolling of the car, never let go his hold. Seeing the hot stove coming down the sisle towards him, he checked it with his foot and prevented it from striking those below with as much violence as it otherwise would have done. The car took fire before any of the passengers could extricate themselves, but they finally broke through the windows and made their escape. Judge Lyman, of Corning, was severely bruised, and Col. Paine fears fatally injured. A Mr. Beebe, of Bath, was also burt severely, and a young man from Baltimore, who went into fits afterwards, owing probably to the fright .-A Catholic priest, whose name is not given, was slightly injured. In fact nobody in the car, save Col. Paine, escaped.

NEW YORK, February 7. The expected arrival of the 42d High landers in this city, on route for the British possessions on the Pacific, creates much interest among military circles. The 42d is one of the oldest and bravest of all the regiments to which Great Britain entrusts her honor on the field of strife. It is not far from two hundred years old, and has been engaged in nearly all the great battles of the world within that period. The ministry have declared an inexorable resolution to this effect, and they are sustained by the unanimous vote of the popular representatives. After this demonstration, will any man persist in the attempt to acquire Cuba by the means proposed in the Senatorial cancus? If in the face of an indignant remonstrance from the Spanish nation, Congress shall determine to deposit the $30,000,000 with the Executive, Republican journals may well assert that the money is intended for some other ubjust than the purchase of Cuba.

The object to our mind is plain. It is to furnish a vast corruption fund with which to carry the next Presidential election. It can be no honest object; of that Spicy.

In the U. S. House of Representatives. on Tuesday, in a disension on the Mapproprietion bill, a motion was made to defer the purchase of a building for the use of the U. S. Courts in New York, on account of the present exhausted condition of the country, or, if appropriated, the sam of one million of dollars be reduced by $215,000_ The latter was adopted, year T9, mays 50.

Mr. Love juy, of Hanois, shoved to strike out the clause and for the safekceping of prisoners. Ho understood that that was neant to provide for the resention of fugitive slaves. He favored a strict construcion of the constitution in that passicular. If the fugi ive slave law was binding at all, it was binding only so far as to permit the capture and return of the fugitives It was utterly abhorrent to the feelings of himself and of his constituents to be taxed for keeping the wretched fugitives until their case was tried in the courts. For himself when interrogated concerning his individual sentiments, he would march right up to the confessional and tell them that when a fellow being (black or white) came to his door imploring food and shelter, be would never refuse it. And if the demon of slavery crossed his threshold and forbude im in the name of the law he would bid him deliance in the name of his God.

Mr. Singleton .- If that is not stealing, what do you call stending ?" Mr. Lovejoy .- Holding fellow beings in bondage." [knowhter and confusion.] Mr. Cochrane, of N. Y, moved so to mend that the clause should read for the safe keeping of free prisoners.' [Great laughter.]. Other amendments of a trifling nature were considered.

The question of raising the rate of postage very naturally creates a 'sensatiou,' and meets with strong opposition in the large cities. The Post says :

"It appears by the statistics of the year

1857—the latest we have—that the bulk of the postage collected in the United States is paid by a few States. Of the seven and a half midious of dollars revenue of the Department, nearly three millions are paid by the States of Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania. Only five States, in fact, pay the expense of mail transportation-Connecticut and Rhode Island, in addition to the three just mentioned. These are in excess nearly a million of dollars; while the others are behindhand some three millions. Now, to enhance the letter rates is to increase the taxes of the States that pay, in order to meet the deficiencies of those

SARSAPARILLA. - This tropical root has a reputation wide as the world, for curing steps as may be necessary to obtain united one class of the disorders that afflict mankind-a reputation too which it deserves as the best antidote we possess for scrofulous complaints. But to be brought into use, its virtues must be concentrated and combined with other medicines that increase its power. Some reliable compound of this character is much needed in the community Read the advertisement of Dr. Ayen's Sarsaparilla in our columns, and

In the adjoining township there are hundreds of families verging on starvation; and God only knows where the end will be, or what is to become of them. Many of our best and thriftiest farmers are destitule of the wherewithal to carry them TIPTON BOLLES REWARD, through till another harvest—the crops of the past year having almost proved a total We could enumerate instances where, ever already, families are subsisting on a few boiled turnips, others on bread and water alone, and the supply so small that it cannot keep body and soul hanging together for many weeks longer.
